U. S. IS OUT OF THE GERMAN WRANGLE HUGHES DECLARES

THIS COUNTRY NOT TO TAKE AN ACTIVE PART IN THE REPARATION CRISIS.

FRENCH TROOPS SWEEP IN DIRECTION OF RHINE

Only Nine Days Remain For Germany to Act Definitely on Matter Of Settlement.

BERLIN, May 3.—Belief was expressed in political quarters here today that the refusal of the United States to deliver the German counter proposals on reparations to the entente would necessitate the resignation of Chancellor Fehrenbach and Foreign Minister Simons.

By Associated Press

BERLIN, May 3.—The note of Secretary of State Hughes to the German government, replying to the German counter proposals on reparations, was delivered to Dr. Simons, the foreign minister, at 11:30 o'clock this morning by Dresel, the American commissioner here.

LONDON May 3—Complete agreement has been reached among the allies on the measures to be taken in connection with the German reparations question it was announced this afternoon at the conclusion of the supreme council's session The council has summoned the members of the reparations commission from Paris to assist in drawing the protocol for presentation to the German government

The members of the reparations commission are expected to reach London tomorrow and complete the document by tomorrow evening when the text or an official abstract will be made public

The allied ultimatum will be sent to Germany not later than May 6, and will expire six days from that date

BELIEVE U. S. NOTE WILL FORCE GERMANY TO YIELD

By A L BRADFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 3—Germany will be forced to yield completely to the allied demands for reparations and probably will pay as a subject nation, it was believed here today as the result of Secretary of State Hughes' action in withdrawing the United States from an active part in the reparations crisis

As Marshal Foch is preparing the French armies for an advance into the rich Ruhr region of Germany if that country again refuses to yield and the allied supreme council is making ready to dispatch an ultimatum to Berlin demanding payment of 132 000,000,000 gold marks and a 26 percent tax on her exports Hughes' latest note to the German government will be delivered today to Foreign Minister Simons

Secretary Hughes' note dispatched late last night under dramatic circumstances states that this government finds itself unable to reach the conclusion that the proposals (recently made by Germany through the United States) afford a basis for discussion acceptable to the allied governments and that these proposals cannot be entertained

'This government therefore" the note concludes, 'again expressing its earnest desire for a prompt settlement of this vital question strongly urges the German government at once to make directly to the allied governments clear, definite and adequate proposals which would in all respects meet its just obligations

Hughes note caused complete surprise in Washington today, the most common comment heard being that the secretary had allowed the leadership in settlement of the reparations question to slip from his hands

NINE DAYS REMAIN FOR GERMANY TO ANSWER

LONDON May 3—Nine days remain for Germany to inform her entente of her intentions relative to the payment of reparations and give guarantees for the execution of her promises She must deal directly with the allies it was believed today, as Charles E Hughes American secretary of state, has seemed to have closed the door to Washington' in the note he sent to the German capital last night

Mr Hughes suggested that the German government forward immediately to the allies clear, definite and adequate proposals which would in all respects meet its just obligations

The sum of 6 500 000 000 pounds (normally about $32 142 000,000) was fixed yesterday as the principal of the German reparations debt Germany will be asked to either acknowledge or repudiate this obligation by May 12 The supreme council will send its demand to Berlin through the allied reparations commission

Allied experts were busy this morning working out the details regarding conditions of payment and the guarantees to be exacted These were to be ready when the supreme council met Action on them was expected before the adjournment of the session

Other Matters Considered.

In addition to placing its seal of approval on the terms to be presented to Germany, the council, it was believed would announce its decision relative to the division of Upper Silesia between Poland and Germany Unofficial reports published here last night stated that the districts of Pless and Rybnik and a part of Kattowitz would be awarded Poland if the advice of the inter-allied commission, which conducted the plebiscite in Upper Silesia, was accepted These districts are in the extreme southern end of Silesia and contain many of the important coal mines in southeastern Germany

Pending a reply from Berlin relative to the reparations proposals, France and Great Britain will be preparing coercive measures Upwards of 150,000 members of the class of 1919 have been called to the French colors and dispatches from the Rhine tell of important troop movements toward the Ruhr district, occupation of which the allies declare, will follow should Berlin refuse to meet the entente terms

London Press Comment.

Desire for American assistance in solving German problems found expression today in an article published by the London Times

Reappointment of American representatives the newspaper declared 'would be welcomed by the supreme council the reparations commision and the council of ambassadors

The Daily News said 'With America

BERGDOLL RELEASED TO GET BURIED GOLD

Major General Harris Assumes Responsibility He Tells House Committee.

WASHINGTON May 3—The house committee investigating the escape of Grover C Bergdoll Philadelphia draft dodger, expected to obtain additional information today regarding Bergdoll's release from Fort Jay, N Y prison for the purpose of recovering gold he claimed he had buried in the West Virginia mountains Major General Harris adjutant general of the army declared yesterday he alone was responsible for Bergdoll's release from the disciplinary barracks so he could recover the treasure he insisted he had hidden

Former Judge John W Westcott of New Jersey, one of Bergdoll's attorneys, and who placed Woodrow Wilson in nomination at the Baltimore and St Louis conventions was summoned today to appear before the committee General Peyton C March chief of staff of the army also was summoned

Adjutant General Harris was recalled at the reopening of the hearing today

Questioned as to Bergdoll's desire to find money he claimed he had buried the general said the lawyers probably wanted some of it adding that it was needed in perfecting an appeal

Samuel T Ansell, called to give the committee full information bearing on the case, said no report of Bergdoll's attempt to escape the draft was submitted to him while acting judge advocate general

'I had never heard of the case while in office as I recollect now, he said 'My first connection with the case was on April 3 1920 when I was called on the telephone by an attorney in Philadelphia Two days later D Clarence Gibboney came to see me Gibboney told me he had a court martial case and because of my special knowledge he felt I could be hopeful to him That was the first I had heard of Bergdoll '

Before returning to Philadelphia Gibboney the witness said gave him a check for $200 as a retainer Later, after looking over the court martial papers, Ansell said his firm became counsel

STORY SEEMED REASONABLE SAYS FORMER JUDGE ADVOCATE

WASHINGTON, May 3—Samuel T Ansell, former judge advocate of the army, and counsel for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll escaped Philadelphia draft dodger told a house investigating committee today that the story about Bergdoll having buried gold in the mountains of West Virginia seemed reasonable' and that he believed it

'The circumstances were impressive' he said 'as they impressed General Harris when I laid the facts before him

The decision to ask the war department to release Bergdoll under a military guard to hunt for the gold was reached the witness said at a conference here between Ansell Clarence D Gibboney and Judge John W Wescott of New Jersey

'Mr Wescott said he did not see how the secretary of war could refuse to overturn the verdict said the witness He told me among other things that he had nominated Mr Wilson for president '

At this conference, Ansell said Gibboney told how Bergdoll had visited Washington and obtained $105 000 in gold from the treasury for burial in the mountains The gold Gibboney was quoted as saying was obtained through an assistant secretary of the treasury whose name Ansell said he did not recall if it was mentioned

Gibboney asked them, according to the witness if there was any way to get Bergdoll out under bail to recover the gold

'Mr Westcott thought it doubtful' the witness continued 'but I recalled cases where prisoners under exceptional circumstances were sent out under military guard Gibboney wanted to know if we could get war department permission Westcott said he knew the secretary of war well and they agreed that I should mention that he and Gibboney joined me in presenting the release plea '

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SEAMAN'S UNION CONFER WITH DAVIS

DISCUSS MEDIATION WITH SECRETARY OF LABOR AT HIS REQUEST.

WIDELY AT VARIANCE AS TO EFFECT OF WALKOUT

Plan to Discuss Sympathetic Strike in Effort to Tie up all Harbor Work.

WASHINGTON, May 3. — Hopeful progress in the efforts to end the dispute between the marine workers and shipworkers was reported to President Harding's cabinet today by Secretary Davis. After the cabinet adjourned the labor department head went into conference with the representatives of the workers.

Shipping board officials also were hopeful that the controversy would be brought to an end soon.

(By the United Press)

The nation-wide seamens strike went into its third day with the general situation as follows

Representatives of the International Seamens union met in Washington to confer with Secretary Davis at his request that they discuss mediation

The American Steamship Owners association in reply to Secretary Hoover's suggestion for mediation by a commission of three private citizens intimated it preferred to settle the dispute itself

Both the owners and the United States shipping board reiterated that acceptance of the 15 per cent wage reduction must preface any negotiations That is the crux of the strike and the seamen steadfastly refuse to consider it

Seamens representatives prepared to meet the towing company workers officials to urge a sympathetic strike that would tie up all harbor work

Owners and seamen continued widely at variance on their estimates of men and ships affected the former contending that only a few hundred men and a handful' of ships were involved while the men maintained that practically the entire 175 000 union membership had responded and that virtually all merchant craft now in port were helpless

The best obtainable estimates of strike conditions were

UNCERTAINTY AS TO AMOUNT OF FEDERAL TAX FOR THE YEAR

TARIFF FIRST PROGRAM NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

Longworth Gives Assurance That Excess Profits Tax Will Be Repealed.

By CLARENCE DU BOSE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON May 3—Business men will not know until the latter part of this year what their federal taxes for 1921 will be

Although this uncertainty is one of the factors of the business depression it was definitely determined today that notwithstanding Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's letter congress will adhere to its tariff first program with taxation revision to follow

Representative Longworth Ohio republican leader of the movement to reform taxes first in order to speed business stabilization admitted that he has lost

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON May 3—President Harding today notified all members of his cabinet that they must keep their expenditures within the amount appropriated by congress for their departments

In a letter sent to each secretary, Harding deplored the dangerous tendency of government departments to exceed the amounts congress had allowed them and then put in requests for more money

The letter was written by the president following a letter he had received from Senator Warren Wyoming chairman of the senate appropriations committee calling attention to the fact that requests for extra appropriations now before congress totaled $216 000,000

The president's letter follows

I am in receipt of a letter from Chairman Warren of the senate committee on appropriations calling my attention to the fact that estimates before the congress call for approximately $16 000 000 of deficiency appropriations and the estimated deficiencies will run very much beyond that sum I do not know of any more dangerous tendency in the administration of government departments and I am very sure we can never fix ourselves firmly on a basis of economy until the departments are conducted within the provisions made by congress

I wish you would call this matter to the attention of the various bureau chiefs that a like situation will not be repeated in the future

TWO BIG PROBLEMS AFFECTING THE G. O. P. TO COME TO CLIMAX

THESE INVOLVE NEGRO PARTY PARTICIPATION AND NATIONAL CHAIRMAN.

PLAN TO CUT DOWN THE NUMBER NEGRO DELEGATES

Postmaster General Hays Wishes to be Relieved of Position as Head of Committee.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and the Wichita Daily Times
(Copyright 1921 by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, May 3—Within the next few days two issues seriously affecting the republican party organization will come to a climax The first has to do with regenerating the party in the south A committee is now at work preparing recommendations to end the perennial scandal "of the southern delegate" This committee is not unanimous in its point of view A portion of it consists of old guard republican leaders who have long had relations with the existing republican leaders in the south and who hesitate to take any action which would destroy the power of those leaders and the position they have in their communities—a position which depends almost wholly on their power in the republican party

But that portion of the committee which will probably prevail is determined to end the southern delegate scandal There is good evidence that this more modern thinking portion of the committee will have the support of President Harding when the matter comes to an issue during the next few days

The point of view of President Harding and the more thoughtful leaders of the party is that the success which the republican party paid in the south during the recent election shall be preserved They recognize that this success was based not on the old methods of the southern republican leaders, but rather in spite of them They believe that the best thing for the republican party is to follow a course which will be encouraging to those southern men leaders in various lines of business who voted the republican ticket last fall

To Reduce Number Delegates.

The proposal is, in the first place to cut down the number of delegates The bulk of them colored who in the past have come from eleven southern states to the republican national convention The reduction in numbers will be from about 121 to 70

The proposal is even more drastic and fundamental It is that the republican party will not recognize any voter in its primaries, or any participant in its local conventions who is not also recognized as a voter by the local laws of his state and who has not actually voted under the laws of his state

The result of this rule would be to eliminate not all of the colored republican voters in the south but that large part of them described as "fungus" colored voters who have no status as such under the laws of their states and who never cut any figure in politics except once in every four years to participate under the leadership of white political adventures in wholly irregular conventions and primaries which select delegates to the republican national convention

The republican leaders are assured that if they take this step they will have the enthusiastic sympathy of large numbers of white leaders in the south who want to be republicans, but who can only be republicans provided the party cleans house in the south

The republican leaders are told by many business men in the south that for economic and other reasons there are the makings of a real republican party in several southern states, like Georgia and Louisiana It is this line that the party organization will probably follow when the matter is taken up during the next few days

New Party Chairman.

The other business soon to be taken up by the republican national committee is the selection of a new party chairman The present chairman, Postmaster General Will Hayes wants to resign and it is recognized by him as well as by the other leaders that it is best for him to resign It is true that postmasters are now so protected by civil service regulations that there is no longer the question of propriety that once existed in a postmaster general being a party chairman Nevertheless, in the spirit of leaning over backwards and for other reasons Chairman Hays is going to get let out

As his successor it can be taken for granted that John T Adams of Iowa will be selected Some opposition is being made to Mr. Adams based on an episode now several years old. But this opposition is inconsiderable in quantity and is of such a kind as to stiffen the support of Mr Adams' friends

Mr Adams was in line for the chairmanship several years ago at the time Will Hays was choosen At that time some one dug up certain letters which Mr Adams had written during 1914 from Germany where he was then traveling to his paper in Iowa. These letters dealt with the issues of the war in a way which at the time, was entirely proper and reasonable

But when the time came for selecting a new national chairman America was in the war on the side opposed to Germany and the point was raised that it would be dubious to select as national chairman a man who had uttered sentiments of detached consideration of Germany's side of the case even though at the time the sentiments were expressed during the first few months of the war, America was not in it and was in a position of neutrality

At the time the rejection of Mr Adams for this cause was strongly resented by generous-minded members of the national committee as a concession to prejudice and a violation of true justice Nevertheless as a matter of expediency largely Mr Adams rejected and Mr Hays was chosen It is this same objection to Mr Adams that is now brought up but it can be taken for granted that the objection will merely strengthen the determination of those who think that Mr Adams was unfairly penalized four years ago

Mr Adams' character and ability are of the highest, and there is not any doubt that he will be chosen as Chairman Hays' successor

Hodgins' Attorney Plans Further Action Following Sustaining of Brailey's Demurrer.

An amended petition will be filed within a few days in the Hodgins vs Brailey election contest, B D Sartin counsel for the contestant, said Monday afternoon following the action of the 78th district court in sustaining the general demurrer of the contestee Leave to file an amended petition was granted Mr Sartin who says that he will strike out the word "likely" and make his petition read that the result would be changed by eliminating the alleged illegal votes

Wichitans whose names were published Monday afternoon as being on the list of voters whose names do not appear on the polling tax list, began getting busy soon after The Times appeared Some of them phoned The Times, some phoned Mr Brailey, and some, it is understood, phoned Mr Hodgins and Mr Sartin, declaring themselves duly qualified voters and expressed more or less caustic opinions about anybody that said they weren't

A hasty check of the list by Mr Brailey disclosed he said, that the errors were made in writing the names on the poll list made by the election judges For instance, the name of 'C E Tims' appears on the list this it was found should have been C E Thames who is employed by Mr Cline and who has a poll tax receipt The name is pronounced as if it were spelled Tims Similar mistakes were found on about 60 of the 153 names on the list Some of the names such as those of J H Barwise and G W Eagle, are of Wichitans who are over the age for which poll tax receipts are required

The proceedings Monday afternoon did not go into that phase of the contest at all, the demurrer being sustained on the ground that the contestant did not allege anything that could affect the result The judges did not indicate whether in the event an amended petition is filed they would require the contestant to show that the voters whose names were listed voted for Mr Brailey While there is no formal evidence to that effect it is known that a number of those on the list did not support Mr Brailey

Judge J T Montgomery of counsel for the contestee, characterized the petition as an invitation to the court to go on a fishing expedition" and denied that it alleged anything that would change the results Even if the election law was not strictly observed as to providing booths, etc, he said, it was not shown that this condition operated any more to the benefit of one candidate than to another

The allegation by the contestant that the court house ballot box was tampered with after being taken to the city hall gives a new angle to the case which Mr Sartin indicated Monday would be gone into more fully when the case comes up again George Thorburn city clerk in whose custody the ballot boxes were, denies that there was any tampering

DECLARES JAPAN IS VICTIM DELIBERATE ENEMY PROPAGANDA

STATEMENT MADE BY AMBASSADOR SHIDEHARA IN AN ADDRESS.

CONSTITUTES FIRST PUBLIC AND COMPLETE DISCUSSION

Says There Are Differences Between U. S. and Japan That Await Adjustment.

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, May 3—Japan has been the subject of a 'deliberate enemy propaganda," Baron Shidehara Japanese ambassador to the United States, declared today in an address before the chamber of commerce

The address of Baron Shidehara constituted the first public and complete discussion of American-Japanese relations he has made as ambassador at Washington

"Between the United States and Japan it is idle to deny that there are differences which are awaiting adjustment" the ambassador said "There is an atmosphere which ought to be cleared up That is a plain statement of fact which is not prejudicial to good feeling It might be truthfully made of most states in their relations with each other

"If there is anything wrong in the relations of Japan and America we want to find out the trouble and apply the remedy So I have come here to assure you that my government and people alike aspire to live in genuine and cordial friendship with the United States The two nations are already linked in a community of vast material interests

Says Harmony Necessary.

"Of still greater significance is the fact that the stability of every human institution about the shores of the Pacific ocean depends upon the maintenance of harmony and good understanding between Japan and the United States A grave responsibility rests upon our countries Neither nation can avoid it How can we turn from such a solemn trust to engage in selfish bickerings or to indulge in foolish recriminations"

"And yet we are constantly fed upon wild speculations, which tend to create an atmosphere of uneasiness and tension in our mutual relationships It is one of the unfortunate frailties of human nature that the public is more hospitable to exciting stories and sensational reports than dry facts

"This takes no account of certain elements in every community who are greatly interested in embittering international relations They are unscrupulous and pertinacious They magnify every mole hill into a mountain and distort the most laudable intentions into crafty schemings

Calls It Enemy Propaganda.

"It is a well known fact that the so-called propaganda has made rapid growth during the past few years as an incident of war This is a powerful weapon and when used for the dissemination of truth tends to inspire confidence and good will between nations Such activities, however, when set in motion with the definite purpose to deceive the public and to stir up suspicions hatreds and antagonisms becomes a formidable tool for evil, and unfortunately Japan has been the subject of a deliberate enemy propaganda

One of the charges constantly brought against the Jap is that he is not assimilable Whether or not he can be physically assimilated when he comes in contact with other races is of secondary consideration What he does claim is that when given the opportunity and the privilege, he is capable of these intellectual and spiritual assimilations which are compatible with good citizenship, dignified manhood and loyal service to the community in which he resides

"But, lest I be misunderstood as urging some action upon the American people which is distasteful to them, it is proper for me to reiterate the oft repeated declaration of my government that Japan claims no right or has she any intention of sending immigrants to this country She has held consistently to the policy of placing restrictions upon such emigration She only asks for her nationals lawfully resident in this country that just and equitable treatment which is in line with the fine traditions of the American people She desires nothing more—nor can she be satisfied with anything less.

"Sane and honest diplomacy, backed by sense, reason, charity and mutual accommodation will also lead to the lasting settlement of these problems There is absolutely no other course"

THE ADVENTURE OF THE GOLDEN PINCE-NEZ

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story thus far:

One wild and stormy night in November Sherlock Holmes and Dr Watson were surprised by a visit from Stanley Hopkins a promising detective whom Holmes had helped on several occasions He was puzzled by a case down in Kent, a country house down there Yoxley Old Place was taken some years before by an old man, Professor Coram He was an invalid keeping his bed half the time He was writing a learned book, and a year before had found a secretary necessary The first two he tried were not satisfactory, but the third, Mr Willoughby Smith, was just what his employer wanted That morning, between eleven and twelve, Susan the house-maid heard a terrible cry and a heavy thud in the study Rushing in she found Mr. Willoughby Smith lying on the floor wounded in the neck by a small sealing wax knife from the desk He gasped "The Professor—it was she" and died The Professor sitting in bed was terribly agitated when the housekeeper told him of the tragedy but could not explain the strange words

PART TWO

"I must ask you first, Mr Holmes, to glance at this rough plan, which will give you a general idea of the position of the professor's study and the various points of the case It will help you in following my investigation"

He unfolded the rough chart and he laid it across Holmes' knee I rose, and, standing behind Holmes, studied it over his shoulder

"It is very rough, of course, and it only deals with the points which seem to me to be essential. All the rest you will see later for yourself Now, first of all presuming that the assassin entered the house how did he or she come in? Undoubtedly by the garden path and the side door, from which there is direct access to the study Any other way would have been exceedingly complicated and the escape must have also been along that line, for of the two exits from the room one was used by Susan as she ran downstairs and the other leads straight to the professor's bedroom I therefore directed my attention at once to the garden path, which was saturated with recent rain and would certainly show any footmarks

"My examination showed me that I was dealing with a cautious and expert criminal No footmarks were to be found on the path There could be no question, however, that someone had passed along the grass border which lines the path, and that he had done so in order to avoid leaving a track I could not find anything in the nature of a distinct impression but the grass was trodden down and someone had undoubtedly passed. It could only have been the murderer, since neither the gardener nor anyone else had been there that morning and the rain had only begun during the night

"One moment" said Holmes "Where does this path lead to?"

"To the road"

"How long is it?"

"A hundred yards or so"

"At the point where the path passes through the gate, you could surely pick up the tracks?"

"Unfortunately, the path was tiled at that point"

"Well, on the road itself?"

"No it was all trodden into mire"

"Tut-tut" Well, then these tracks upon the grass, were they coming or going?"

"It was impossible to say There was never any outline"

"A large foot or a small?"

"You could not distinguish"

Holmes gave an ejaculation of impatience

"It has been pouring rain and blowing a hurricane ever since," said he "It will be harder to read now than that palimpsest Well, well, it can't be helped What did you do Hopkins after you had made certain that you had made certain of nothing?"

"I think I made certain of a good deal Mr Holmes I knew that someone had entered the house cautiously from without I next examined the corridor. It is lined with cocoanut matting, and had taken no impression of any kind This brought me into the study itself It is a scantily furnished room The main article is a large writing-table with a fixed bureau This bureau consists of a double column of drawers, with a central small cupboard between them The drawers were open, the cupboard locked The drawers, it seems, were always open, and nothing of value was kept in them There were some papers of importance in the cupboard but there were no signs that this had been tampered with, and the professor assures me that nothing was missing It is certain that no robbery has been committed

"I come now to the body of the young man It was found near the bureau and just to the left of it, as marked upon that chart The stab was on the right side of the neck and from behind forwards so that it is almost impossible that it could have been self-inflicted"

"Unless he fell upon the knife," said Holmes.

"Exactly The idea crossed my mind But we found the knife some feet away from the body, so that seems impossible. Then, of course, there are the man's own dying words. And, finally, there was this very important piece of evidence which was found clasped in the dead man's right hand"

From his pocket Stanley Hopkins drew a small paper packet He unfolded it and disclosed a golden pince-nez, with two broken ends of black silk cord dangling from the end of it. "Willoughby Smith had excellent sight," he added "There can be no question that this was snatched from the face or the person of the assassin"

Sherlock Holmes took the glasses into his hand, and examined them with the utmost attention and interest. He held them on his nose, endeavored to read through them, went to the window and stared up the street with them, looked at them most minutely in the full light of the lamp, and finally with a chuckle seated himself at the table and wrote a few lines upon a sheet of paper, which he tossed across to Stanley Hopkins

"That's the best I can do for you," said he "It may prove to be of some use"

The astonished detective read the note aloud It ran as follows

"Wanted, a woman of good address attired like a lady She has a remarkably thick nose with eyes which are set close upon either side of it. She has a puckered forehead, a peering expression, and probably rounded shoulders There are indications that she has had recourse to an optician at least twice during the last few months As her glasses are of remarkable strength and as opticians are not very numerous there should be no difficulty in tracing her"

Holmes smiled at the astonishment of Hopkins, which must have been reflected upon my features.

"Surely my deductions are simplicity itself" said he "It would be difficult to name any articles which afford a finer field for inference than a pair of glasses, especially so remarkable a pair as these That they belong to a woman I infer from their delicacy and also of course from the last words of the dying man As to her being a person of refinement and well dressed, they are as you perceive, handsomely mounted in solid gold and it is inconceivable that anyone who wore such glasses could be slatternly in other respects You will find that the clips are too wide for your nose, showing that the lady's nose was very broad at the base This sort of nose is usually a short and coarse one but there is a sufficient number of exceptions to prevent me from being dogmatic or from insisting upon this point in my description My own face is a narrow one and yet I find that I cannot get my eyes into the center nor near the center, of these glasses Therefore the lady's eyes are set very near to the sides of the nose You will perceive, Watson, that the glasses are concave and of unusual strength A lady whose vision has been so extremely contracted all her life is sure to have the physician characteristics of such vision, which are seen in the forehead, the eyelids, and the shoulders"

"Yes" I said, "I can follow each of your arguments I confess however that I am unable to understand how you arrive at the double visit to the optician"

Holmes took the glasses in his hand.

"You will perceive," he said "that the clips are lined with tiny bands of cork to soften the pressure upon the nose One of these is discolored and worn to some slight extent, but the other is new. Evidently one has fallen off and been replaced I should judge that the older of them has not been there more than a few months They exactly correspond so I gather that the lady went back to the same establishment for the second

By George, it's marvelous" cried Hopkins, in an ecstacy of admiration "To think that I had all that evidence in my hand and never knew it" I had intended however to go the round of the London opticians"

"Of course you would Meanwhile have you anything more to tell us about the case?"

"Nothing Mr Holmes I think that you know as much as I do now—probably more We have had inquiries made as to any stranger seen on the country roads or at the railway station We have heard of none What beats me is the utter want of all object in the crime Not a ghost of a motive can anyone suggest"

"Ah" here I am not in a position to help you But I suppose you want us to come out tomorrow?"

"If it is not asking too much Mr Holmes There's a train from Charing Cross to Chatham at 6 in the morning and we should be at Yoxley Old Place between 8 and 9"

"Then we shall take it Your case has certainly some features of great interest and I shall be delighted to look into it Well it's nearly 1 and we had best get a few hours sleep I dare say you can manage all right on the sofa in front of the fire I'll light my spirit lamp and give you a cup of coffee before we start"

BAPTIST WOMEN PERFECT PLANS FOR $1,500 DRIVE READY FOR W. M. U. MEET

The Baptist women are entering on a $1 500 drive among themselves to raise the remainder of the pledge on the new church The money is pledged for May 30, and plans for securing contributions were perfected at the regular Monday business meeting of all of the circles, presided over by Mrs H N Pounds, president.

Mrs E W Carter was named chairman of the money raising campaign, and Mrs. W. A Freear chairman of the 'Use Your Talents committee The plan worked out was to the end that all who can not contribute money may "use their talents" and make something that can be turned into money at once Among the things suggested were garments home cooked food, etc However, no talent scheme was barred, and if any group of the women conceive another way of turning their talent into money it will be welcomed Those who have or expect to have articles for sale are asked to phone Mrs Freear

The meeting was enthusiastic, about 150 members of the circles being present, and all were very much in favor of a quick drive and completion of the work as soon as possible.

LATEST STYLE

By LENORE

After a well-spent life a dark blue crepe or satin dress may be mobilized for further service by remodeling, and can be brought up to date by combining it with foulard or some one of the pretty printed silks which are offered in such variety The French know well how to combine contrasting materials skilfully and so I offer as a foundation this charming model from Premet

The entire skirt is made of the plain material and the new material is introduced only in the bodice and long sash end dropped from the waist, emphasizing the long dignified lines of the dress and the simplicity so much desired by the tailored type of woman when she dons a silk dress

DAUGHTERS OF 1812 VISIT WHITE HOUSE

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Edwins

When I had let Jubilee down out of the window by the rope in his teeth and had milked and fed the dummed brutes and et breakfast I found that my mother and father had went over to see Banty when I went to bed last night and he is in bed with one arm and leg all wrapped up and my mother said it was a wonder he was not killed by electricity out of the wire

When I went out to go to school I picked some dandelions because that is the only flower in our yard yet and when I knocked on Banty's door his mother come and kissed me and said

But the doctor said he could not go to school for another week and me and Banty could not help grinning at each other when she said that for me to come upstairs where he was and I wiped off the kiss on my sleeve and me and Jubilee went up

Banty was setting up against a pillow and there was a lot of good things to eat on a little table by his bed and his mother put the dandelions in a glass of water and she said that Banty will have to stay in bed for a week and then he can get up but the doctor said he could not go to school for another week, and me and Banty could not help grinning at each other when she said that

I asted her if the doctor had looked through him yet and she said he did not think he would need to She says they do not look through but just make a photograph of his bones and they do not have to undress him or anything I was almost late for school The teacher was surprized when she found out why Banty was not there and she said that she would go to see him

We went to his house after school but he was asleep and when we had went around and looked at the wire where he fell off of it we all went to the mudhole in the brickyard to see if anyone had drown any cats or anything which they do a lot of this time of year but they hadn't So then we went down to the pond and was making a springboard on the damn and I fell in and then all the others jumped in so we would all be wet because it was not hardly worth the trouble to build a fire to dry just one

Only Hopie which is our crip did not jump in because we do not like to let him get wet because he gets sick easy and if anything happened to him we would not have a crip on our bunch unless Banty should be one when he gets well and we do not think he will be and anyhow it is best to not take any chances till we find out

My mother was not home when I got home and when she got home she had been over to take a pie to Banty and she said Jonesy had brung him a glass of jell I ast her for a pie and she told me to get out of the kitchen Then I asted her if I would fall off of the house if she would give me one and then she gave me a piece but she made me take Annable Lee out on the porch and mind her till milking time Darn a kid sister I will be glad when I get to be a doctor

MORE REDUCTIONS IN SALARIES LIKELY, COUNCIL INDICATES

ADDITIONAL SECTIONS OF THE BUDGET DISCUSSED MONDAY NIGHT, WITHOUT ACTION.

BETTER COLLECTION OF GARBAGE BEING PLANNED

New Attitude on Stores in Residence Section Shown—Discuss Revision Of Sewer Rent Charges.

Consideration of the budget was resumed by the city council Monday night, after a number of lesser matters were disposed of. The budget recommendations for the fire and park departments were approved, and other departments were considered, with the salary-reduction idea prominently in the foreground. Preparation of the budget as a whole will be under way this week, ready for submission next Monday night.

Aside from budget matters, council proceedings can be summarized as follows:

Promised a Civic league committee that a feasible plan for garbage collections will be worked out at once.

Order construction of a water crane for street sprinkling on the east side.

Granted a provisional permit for establishing a drug store in the 1500 block in Floral Heights.

Permitted the truck growers to use the west side of Ohio between Tenth and Eleventh, for a public market.

Appointed Arch Dawson as city [illegible] during Judge Ogle's absence.

[illegible]ted Judge Bonner mayor pro [illegible]

[illegible]ased sewer rent collections, [illegible] view to changing the present system of assessments and collections.

Approved employment of architect for the hospital addition.

Took preliminary steps for paving of five blocks on Filmore street.

Discussed the park situation, without reaching any decision as to which park should be turned over to the Kiwanis club for improvement.

No definite action on the salary question was taken, but it was indicated that a reduction would be made in the salary of City Engineer Montgomery whose $625 per month is the highest amount paid locally; also that a misunderstanding that appears to have arisen over the salary of Water Superintendent Lawton will be adjusted. The park and fire budgets, which were approved, were published in The Times last Tuesday.

Want Improved Garbage Service.

Mrs. M. H. Glover and Mrs. T. B. Smith, representing the sanitation committee of the Civic league, presented a request for better service in garbage removal, declaring that some portions of the city were not reached at all, and that in others the wagons made trips only once a week. Mrs. Glover called attention to the menace of flies and other hot weather nuisances if the situation were not remedied. Dr. J. F. Reed said that he had not gone into the matter thoroughly, but that some new plan seemed to be necessary. After considerable discussion Dr. Reed was authorized to advertise for bids for garbage removal, and sentiment of the council seemed to be in favor of districting the city for this purpose.

Installation of a crane near Sixth and Michigan, for use by water sprinkling contractors who serve that portion of the city, was authorized after the sprinkling question had gone over thoroughly. The matter was referred to the water department.

The application of A. W. Cunningham for permit to establish a drug store in the 1500 block on Monroe resulted in a long discussion by the councilmen as to the advisability of permitting stores to go into residence sections. Mr. Cunningham had his petition signed by practically every property owner in the 300-foot radius, and even beyond, and said that he had already gone to considerable expense, not anticipating any objection; the council finally authorized him to go ahead, with the understanding that the permit might be revoked at any time.

Mayor Cline sought to make it clear that he thought it a good time to take steps against the springing up of groceries, drug stores, filling stations, etc., in residence sections. The fact that neighboring property owners were willing, he said, did not make it incumbent on the council to grant such permits, especially in view of the fact that plans for zoning the city and restricting shops to certain prescribed areas, were being considered.

Solon Downing, on behalf of the truck growers' temporary organization asked and received permission to use the west side of Ohio, between Tenth and Eleventh, for a public market. The advisability of making use of some of the vacant lots in that vicinity, so as not to interfere with traffic, was suggested to Mr. Downing.

In the absence of City Judge Ogle, who will be out of the city for about a week, Arch Dawson was named as city judge pro tem.

Councilman Bonner was elected mayor pro tem for the ensuing year, succeeding Councilman Curlee. Nobody seemed enthusiastic about the job but it was shoved onto Judge Bonner before he was aware what was happening.

Sewer Matters Discussed.

Dr. Reed was authorized to settle with the Fritz Motor company for payment of a sewer line privately constructed. Discussion of this matter caused a renewal of the question of sewer rent collections, members of the council expressing the opinion that considerable sums were owing the city from this source. A suggestion by Councilman Bonner, that the sewer rents be collected by the water department, seemed to meet with favor, but no action was taken.

In this connection, some of the council favored a revision of sewer rent charges; it was pointed out that the owner of a small cottage, with only one connection, has to pay just as much as the occupant of the largest home in the city.

A petition from Fillmore street property owners between Tenth and Avenue F, asking for paving, was presented, and the matter was started on its long routine by the adoption of a resolution declaring it a public necessity.

JURY DONATES $30 TO WIFE OF MAN ON TRIAL FOR DESERTION

A jury, composed of six men in the county court of law upon completion of a trial for wife desertion, donated the wife $30. The foreman after handing the judge the verdict in the case also handed over the money which Judge Rogers presented to the wife.

Orval O'Brien was found guilty of the charge of wife desertion and was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

William Stingley, a barber, was found not guilty of the charge of petty theft by a jury in the county court late Monday evening.

WOMAN DEFEATS HER HUSBAND FOR ALDERMAN, MAJORITY FOUR TO ONE

RED SPRINGS, N. C., May 3.—Mrs. Beatrice Bullock, candidate for alderman in the town election yesterday, defeated her husband, G. T. Bullock, who was a candidate on the opposition ticket by a majority of four votes.

SENATOR LADD DEFENDS NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, May 3—Senator Ladd of North Carolina defended the non-partisan league in his maiden speech in the senate today.

"The farmers of North Dakota," he said, "are neither free lovers, bolsheviki or socialists, and they have not attempted to go beyond their just rights, nor have they attempted to destroy property rights.

"The people of North Dakota are carrying out a great experiment in industrial democracy and if they succeed in the work which they have thus far carried on so successfully in the face of many daunting difficulties, their example is certain to be followed by the sovereign people of other commonwealths who are groaning under the oppression of the same industrial despots."

REVISION OF RATES ON FIRE INSURANCE FOLLOWS INSPECTION

INCREASE ON BUSINESS RISKS AND REDUCTION ON RESIDENCES EFFECTIVE HERE.

KEY RATE IS LOWERED, AND IS NOW 22 CENTS

New Charges Not to Apply on Any Policies Written Prior to First of May.

A general re-rating of all fire insurance risks in Wichita Falls will result from the inspection made this spring by representatives of the state insurance department, according to information received Monday afternoon.

The new rates will be higher on most business property, and somewhat lower on residence risks, as a general rule. The rates will apply only on policies written after April 30, and will not be retroactive.

At the same time, information was received as to the new key rate, which is 22 cents, a reduction of five cents from last year.

The new rates [illegible] ordered following the inspection of the city, from a fire risk standpoint, by state inspectors, who began work two or three months ago. The old rates were based on the inspection of 1915, and as an enormous amount of building had been done since then, greatly changing conditions from an insurance standpoint, the new inspection was deemed advisable. Conditions in the business district were such as to increase rates, while in the residence district reductions are to be expected.

The business district increase will be offset to some extent by the reduced key rate. The key rate is based upon adequacy of fire protection, and is figured in Wichita Falls as follows:

Waterworks deficiency, 8 cents; pumping deficiency, 1 cent; shortage of firemen, less than five paid men to each 5,000 population, 3 cents; shortage in hook and ladder equipment, 2 cents; alarm system deficiency, 1 cent; absence of building laws, 5 cents; presence of overhead wires, 6 cents; obstructions and shingle roofs, 4 cents; total, 28 cents, offsetting credits are obtained by adoption of the national electric code, the teaching of fire prevention in the schools, rewards for arson convictions, and by additions to fire equipment, a total of 6 cents, leaving the net key rate 22 cents.

Further reductions in the rate are expected when the city adopts the building code, and when the various waterworks improvements are completed. It is expected that next year the key rate will be down well below the 20-cent mark.

Local insurance agents want it made clear to the insuring public that the new rates do not affect any policies written before May 1.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY SUMMONED BY JUDGE MARTIN FOR MAY 9

Judge P. A. Martin will summon a special grand jury to convene Monday, May 9. This decision was made Monday evening following a conference with District Attorney Fletcher Jones, who advised the judge that the county was crowded with men waiting for the grand jury to meet.

This action came as a surprise as it was not believed by court house officials that a grand jury would be called until June 20, the opening date of the June term of the 30th district court.

The case of C. A. McDonald et al, charged with theft over $50, will come up for trial in the 89th district court next week. The case against Willie Shelton, charged with murder, was also set for next week, but it was postponed until May 24.

STONE CONTRACT MAY BE CANCELLED

County Auditor Instructed to Buy Stone From Other Places if Quality Doesn't Improve.

Members of the commissioners' court Monday expressed themselves as favoring the cancellation of the stone contract with the Chico Stone company, provided the alleged poor quality of stone continues to come. County Engineer Isbell reported that ten cars were rejected Monday and that clay balls are found in the rock that is coming from this company.

County Auditor Murphy was instructed to keep the work on the Iowa Park paving project going even if it was found necessary to purchase stone from another company. Much trouble has been experienced, it was said, with the quality of stone received from the Chico people.

The county has a contract with the Chico company by which $100,000 was paid them by the county in return for which the stone company is to provide a good quality of stone at the rate of 40 cents a ton. The county auditor stated Tuesday that only about $10,000 of the contract had been utilized thus far by the county.

Mr. Potts of the contracting firm of Potts and Prentice, advised the court that some new equipment would be needed as soon as work was begun on the Electra stretch of road.

The county auditor advised the court Monday evening that he had been utilizing all his spare time in the preparation of his annual report, and that he believed he would have the report in the court's hands not later than four weeks.

The court just before adjournment Monday evening decided to have steel screens placed on all the windows in the county jail in order to prevent outsiders from passing tools and saws to the prisoners in the inside. The representative of the Daily Jail Construction company was engaged Tuesday morning in making a thorough inspection of the screening necessary to equip the building. It will be installed immediately.

Elderly People Need This In Medicine Chest

To relieve chronic constipation, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin handy.

NEARLY all people as they advance in age suffer from chronic constipation. Many, however, are indifferent to the laxative they use, on the theory that "they are all alike." That is a great mistake.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for example, is a mild, gentle liquid laxative, and it does not lose its effect with repeated use. It so trains the bowel muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

A sixty-cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last many months. The prescription was written thirty years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, a well-known family doctor, who is himself now in his 82nd year and can appreciate what chronic constipation must mean to elderly people; how it brings on headaches, colds, loss of appetite and sleep, heaviness and a general dull feeling.

Every home that has an elderly man or woman should be provided with a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought at drug stores last year. It is a truly wonderful constipation remedy.

GREAT INTEREST IN CO OPERATIVE PLAN.

When Aaron Sapiro, the California marketing expert, spoke at Abilene this week in the Taylor county court house there were so many farmers gathered that the court room would not hold them all This is an indication of the intense interest among farmers in improving their marketing system Farmers believe that they must have a better marketing system before they can have prosperity Many of the country s best business men who have given the matter thought agree with this view Co-operative marketing has been developed in California with marked success within recent years It has been the salvation of the fruit growers there, and has brought them prosperity Texas farmers want to see the same plan tried out here

Mr Sapiro as said is an expert He has organized a number of the co-operative associations in California He is being brought to Texas to address the farmers at a score or more of places The big crowd at Abilene will be duplicated at many points

THE FRUITS OF VICTORY.

Troops furnished by the United States in the world war numbered 4 764 071 American casualties numbered 302 612 and 34 248 Americans were killed in action The war cost the United States $24,010,000 000 The American people went to war to end war So far we have gotten a resolution through one house of congress declaring that a state of war no longer exists

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATION

(Congressman Jones of Texas)

These speeches indicate that everybody is getting blood soaked and belligerent and preparing to go into battle right now As a matter of fact our nation is at peace and there are no war clouds dark and lurid swirling above our heads and threatening a deluge of bloodshed and carnage We are at peace with every nation on the face of the earth Our external skies are clear Our lives are secure Our commerce is safe There are no smoke screens of battle or rivers of human blood such as historians have pictured of the warriors of old who have stood at the cannons mouth and faced a storm of lead and fire

So why get all worked up and bring back the days of 1917, when the whole country and the world were aflame? Now I believe my friend from Alabama (Mr Huddleston) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr Knight) are a little extreme in their position but I believe they are no more so than those who have talked on the other side of this question and I for one am getting tired of the man who really is sincerely in favor of disarmament in this country being branded as a pacifist and a coward (Applause) I do not believe it requires any more courage to plead for a big army and a big navy than it does to plead for a small army and a small navy I do not believe it requires any less American courage for a man to walk down the street and into a realm of danger unarmed than it does to buckle on a six shooter and a sword and a carbine and parade like a braggart

There is one way and one way only among nations as among individuals to have peace and harmony and that is for the man who is strong physically, who possesses a strong arm and who possesses courage to say 'I will do my part toward seeing that individuals disarm and the same thing applies to nations I believe in a strong navy I do not believe we ought to have the finest navy in the world but I do believe that in order to get our products to market and to take care of our commerce and see that it is protected we need a good navy I do not believe we need it in the form of battleships so much as in the form of modern equipment Under the sea and in the air the effective weapons of the future will probably operate However just because we need a strong navy I do not see any use of saying 'We are going to build the finest and the biggest and the most of everything on the face of the earth Somebody must pay for all of this The man who follows the plow the merchant the business man—all are called upon to help pay the bill I do not believe it is necessary for us to have a great army in this country There must be some economy in our appropriations There seem to be a few gentlemen in the house of representatives who think it is satisfactory to say I believe in international disarmament I believe the nations ought to disarm but I want us to remain armed There is no nation on the face of the earth that is in such good position to say to the other nations of the world 'We will lead the way and let you follow (Applause) After we have cut down our army and held our navy back to its development there will be plety of time for us to go ahead and make our preparations if the other nations do not follow our example I want to see our beautiful theories that we hear expressed from the lips of some of these eloquent members put to the test of actual facts There is one way to do it America has the strength She has the power She can do it

I would like to see the position taken in this country that while we are going to maintain an army and a navy for national protection, and we are going to have the navy strong enough to take care of our rights on the high seas, we are not going to arm enough to try to bluff the whole world (Applause) We are not running a game of bluff We want simply to take care of the interests and the rights of America. But you are not going to have disarmament in this country nor in the world by simply preaching it and practicing the other extreme Somewhere, somehow some great nation on this earth must take the first step, and I would like to see America take that first step (Applause) Are we going to carry on war forever? Is that to remain forever the principal subject of the historian and the theme of the poet's song? I want to see the poet and the historian select a new star of hope, and with eyes fixed on that star let the world walk into the new sunlight of lasting peace.

WHY?—

Do We Speak of "Taking French Leave?"

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

For a number of years past experts who make a practice of delving into the origin of popular words and phrases have been hazarding explanations of the reason why an informal departure or absence without permission is referred to as taking French leave Some of the investigators advance the opinion that the phrase is self-explanatory, being based upon the native politeness of the French who would prefer to slip away quietly rather than to elbow their way through a throng and thus attract attention to their leave-taking Others claim that the word French in this case should be translated in its literal sense— frank or free —and that French leave is nothing more than leave which has been assumed rather than granted

But when we examine the French equivalent for the same idea we find the phrase prendre conge a la maniere Anglaise — to take leave in the English manner —used with precisely the same meaning while the Germans use the same form as the English and speak of franzosischen Abschied ' In other words each nation blames the custom of surreptitious flight upon its hereditary enemy implying that it is a custom of the country while as a matter of fact sneaking away without giving notice of one s departure is not a matter of geography but one of personal inclination or habit

Going in Through Another Door.

(Houston Chronicle)

Though the Harding administration refused to enter European affairs through the door left open by President Wilson it finds it can not keep out without doing this country a grave injustice

It is therefore maneuvering for another way of admission

This was perfectly apparent when Secretary Hughes expressed willingness to transport new German proposals to the allies provided they were such as to form a practical basis for renewed discussion of the reparations issue

The allies will be more than pleased to welcome us back

It was indeed one of their gravest embarrassments that we should have temporarily withdrawn

They found it practically impossible to arrive at any satisfactory solution without our co operation

Every great nation is of course intimately concerned with the reparations issue

On this more than on any other single problem hinges the ability of the world to take advantage of the essentials of peace

The amount involved is not so important as is the necessity of establishing some amount and settling down to assured commercial regularity

It is the controversy itself rather than what the controversy is about that holds the world back

Naturally the allies want to get the maximum because the maximum will fall far short of justice

But a maximum in controversy means little—not anywhere nearly so much as a minimum in fact

It is the flow in coin that is needed not a flow of declarations

A comparatively small amount of coin coming in regular and dependable installments will be sufficient to adjust and steady the general current

No one wants Germany to be let off too easily But the world can not be held up indefinitely while statesmen argue over an extra billion or two

As a matter of fact the world has lost more during the last two years because of trade stagnation demoralized exchange and unstable credits than Germany can pay in the next half century

It is sheer folly to go on losing pounds in order to get marks

The deadlock is actually taxing American men women and children for it is interfering with the resumption of world trade

It is taxing European people far more

There is a way of course to bring matters to a head but not without general co operation

Isolation of the United States has really interfered with final settlement

For this the republican party is measurably to blame and it is now up to the republicans to rectify the blunder

Except for those irreconcilables who can see nothing and think of nothing but to lambast democratic policy, republican leaders recognize the necessity of re establishing American representation in allied councils

THE BEGINNING OF A BEAUTIFUL FRIENDSHIP

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Sacrifice

There is no easy way to serve
This life is one of sacrifice
With courage and with steady nerve
For conquest each must pay the price

Who asks most willing be to give
For friendship man must play the friend
There is no royal way to live
On service all man s joys depend

Skill is a gift which man acquires
By patient practice day by day
And he who stops because he tires
Soon falls behind along the way

Time grants us what we gladly earn
And gives to every man his due
But he who takes must in his turn
Stand up and pay the giver too

Not on the drowsy lanes of ease
Are fame or fortune to be found
But on the hills of drudgeries

And on the rough and stony ground
How much of self will you bestow?
How do you meet the sterner tasks?
How far for conquest will you go?
These are the questions greatness asks

The Ocean

The ocean extends from shore to shore
And fills up the spaces between
It is made up intirely of diffrent size waves
Wich keep each other clean

On top of the ocean are all kinds of boats
Such as saleboats and boats by steem
With people on board so seasick
They wish it was ony a dreem

In the middle of the ocean are fishes
With few fins but meny scales
Some are inconspicuous like minnies
Wile some are the opposite like wales

On the bottom of the ocean are mermaids.
Half ladies and the other half fishes
They leen back on seaweed and comb out their hair
And look like they felt delicious

O beware of the ocean in a storm
If you chance to be bathing slight
And beware of it also wen the tide is low
For the next way it gets is high.

BORROWING OF CARS BY JOY RIDERS GIVES CITY MUCH TROUBLE

Joyriders whose only means of procuring a car is to help themselves to the machine of some one else struck their apparent favorites the Buicks Monday night The only theft reported was a Cole and this was found early Tuesday morning abandoned as have been all the other missing machines across the river in North Wichita

The car belonged to J S Morrison 1807 Marshall street and was taken from in front of the Olympic theater about 9 o Motorcycle Officers Eyerley and Peters found it several hours later and returned it to the city hall to await Mr Marshall's claim Tuesday morning

The joyriding situation is becoming an alarming menace according to Chief Detective Reid for many of the machines taken are in the hands of inexperienced drivers Three cars have been badly smashed up during the past few months but unfortunately none of the offending occupants have been hurt

Watchfulness on the part of the city's four motorcycle officers Newton Rehatsch Eyerley and Peters drove the joyriders off the lake road according to Reid and they are now turning their attention to the dark streets north of the river When the lake road was first opened up every joyrider in town made a bee line for it but the police soon got wise and after a half dozen arrests had been made and a few shots taken at others this highway lost much of its popularity

DAIRYMEN ASK FOR AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Vote at Banquet Monday Night to Send Committee to County Commissioners.

Hearty endorsement of plans to secure a county agriculture agent for Wichita county and the appointment of a committee to go before the county court of commissioners to seek aid in the bringing of such an agent here featured the monthly banquet and business meeting of the Wichita Dairymen's association held in the Meridle building Monday night A number of spirited talks relating to the dairy business in general were also delivered by various members of the association

Farmers and dairymen in this territory are behind the county agent proposition individually as well as collectively, and it was said for some time past they have hoped to secure an expert agricultural adviser To do this however financial aid from the county court of commissioners is necessary and thus far that body has not seen fit to lend its assistance The committee appointed Monday evening is to wait upon the commissioners court at its next meeting and lay the matter before the officials

The banquet was attended by 22 local dairymen which represents 100 per cent of the association's membership At the conclusion of the feast short addresses bearing on various phases of the dairy business were given by Dr J J Jones of the city health department B W James F C McClears H W Skidmore T I Rudy and M B Emmert

Five gallons of cream which remained in the kitchen after the dairymen had appeased their hunger was turned over to the Salvation Army for disposition and after announcements saying that hereafter all weekly meetings would be held in the chamber of commerce rooms had been made the meeting was adjourned

Resolutions of Respect.

Adopted by Division 736 on the death of our late brother, J K Faunt-LeRoy

In the passing of John Keen Faunt-Leroy, late resident of this city the Protherhood of Locomotive Engineers Division 736, has lost one of its most highly esteemed most worthy and most conscientious members

As one of the organizers of Division 736 B of L E he helped to found what is now one of the largest and most influential labor unions in the city, and it was to his unselfish devotion to working for the benefit of the organization that the Locomotive Engineer Brotherhood now occupies its high position

Mr FauntLeRoy was ever a man of high standards and lofty ideals as shown by the esteem in which he was held by all with whom he came in contact and in his death the community at large as well as the B of L E has suffered an irreparable loss

To the bereaved family we extend our sincerest sympathy and with many others in the city and state who knew him during his life time we grieve the passing of a true friend and worthy brother

OIL MEN CALLED TO MEET HERE MAY 11 ON MEXICAN TARIFF

A conference of West Texas oil men to discuss plans for obtaining a protective tariff on crude oil will be held here May 11, having been called by the oil and gas committee of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Sentiment among local oilmen is strongly for adoption of a tariff rate that will prevent the Mexican crude entering this country and beating down the price of American crude, and it is expected that the meeting on May 11 will take active steps to secure enactment of such a tariff.

The meeting will be held at 10 a. m. May 11, in the chamber of commerce rooms. Members of the oil and gas committee of the West Texas organization include W. B. Sutton of Eastland, W. D. Cline, Temple Peters of Ranger, C. M. Caldwell of Breckenridge, E. S. Shannon of Fort Worth, M. J. Gilmartin of Eliasville.

HAMILTON SPEAKS AT UNIVERSITY CLUB

Points Out Need of Oil Tariff—Discusses Educational Problems of Present Day.

"The last cut in the price of oil will [illegible] the general public more than it [illegible]," said W. B. Hamilton, president [illegible] the Texhoma Oil & Refining [illegible], at the weekly luncheon of the [illegible]versity club in the Kemp hotel Tuesday. Continuing he said:

"The chief cause is the lack of consumption. We must have production to liquidate, but we cannot have production unless we get a price that is sufficient to produce and we cannot get the price unless there is more consumption.

"The only remedy that I can see for this is to place a tariff on Mexican crude oil which will be high enough to eliminate the present competition with local oils. This is the only method by which the financial situation in oil centers like Wichita Falls can be saved. As a result of the lack of consumption during March and April 15,500,000 barrels of oil were stored.

"I confidently believe that we haven't discovered one-half the fields in Wichita county yet. But for further production we must have protection against Mexican oil. I do not say that the Mexican oil which is used for fuel for our navy, or for American vessels which carry American goods or for the refineries which have been built along the coast to handle this oil should be taxed, but all other oil should and I would advise each one of you who desire to see the situation saved to write or wire some friend in congress to see that such a tariff is levied."

Mr. Hamilton also spoke on "What You Would Put Into the State, You Must First Put Into the Schools," stating that it was German education and that alone which was responsible for the war.

"The Germans were taught that might was right," he declared, "and there is too much of such a trend in this country today. If we are to solve the big problems that are facing us we must teach pure unselfishness and humanity toward all."

During the luncheon vocal solos by Misses Hazelle Dean and Martha Roper, and piano selections by Miss Vesta Hastings were well received.

C. F. Carter, reporting for the athletic committee, stated that the club had been challenged to a series of athletic contests by the high school and that a ball game had been arranged between the two teams to be held at Athletic Park Thursday at 4 o'clock. The proceeds will go to buy sweaters for the high school team.

PRINTERS BACK AT WORK TUESDAY WITH TEMPORARY AGREEMENT WITH EMPLOYEES

Union job shop printers returned to work Tuesday morning after being out Monday on account of failure to agree with employers on a 44-hour week. The printers returned under an agreement reached late Monday, whereby the 44-hour week is in effect until May 18, the matter to be taken up with the International headquarters in the meantime.

Some of the printers at first declined to recognize the action of the executive committee and did not show up Monday morning, but later reported for duty.

GIDDINGS AVENUE BUILDING IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed a large frame structure owned by J. A. Mogg in the 1500 block on Giddings shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night.

The building had been constructed to serve as both a residence and a garage, the second floor being fitted up for a home, while the lower was arranged to house automobiles. The place had been vacant for about three months, according to persons living in the vicinity, and no one could offer any explanation as to the cause of the blaze.

The loss was placed at considerably less than $1,000.

WICHITA FALLS BUSINESS MEN WON'T PUT COUNTY'S MISERABLE CHILDREN ASIDE FOR ANYBODY

"I don't believe the little homeless, mistreated waifs of Wichita county ought to be put off for any other organization in the country, or any other charity in the world," said John O'Donohue with main energy and emphasis.

"I'm for the Boy Scouts and I'm for the Y. W. C. A. and I'm for the Near East and the Far East and the starving Chinese, and all of the other good causes that have backed off the map financially this spring.

"But I'll tell you fellows (forgetting the ladies) that I'd go down in my jeans and dig up twice or three times as much to see that a little sick, dirty, miserable Wichita county child was cleaned up and made into a happy kid. We'll take care of these other organizations, and I believe in them. But these kiddies are right here with us, and it's up to us to give 'em a chance."

"You've said a mouthful," said J. C. Hunt. (Those weren't his exact words, but they convey his meaning).

The executive board of the Wichita county organization of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society met in a little office on Seventh street Monday afternoon, with J. C. Hunt, Marvin Smith, John O'Donohue, R. E. Shepherd, Mrs. Minnie Dale Brown, Miss Henricle and Miss Rogers of the board present. Miss Morrison, office manager of the local branch, Mr. Stockwell, case agent of the state society, and Miss Irene M. Davidson were also present.

"Now, Miss Henricle, let's get right down to figures," said the member from McClurkan's, whose mind runs that way. "Just exactly how much are we behind, to date?"

During the discussion of finances it developed that the local branch of the Children's Home society was behind between $700 and $800, an indebtedness not cleared since February. That the spring campaign for funds had been held up and called off and postponed for first one drive and then another. That it takes about $600 a month to run the organization that removes one Wichita county child every five days from unspeakable surroundings and starts him on the certain road to clean, happy surroundings, home, and decent citizenship. And last, but not least in the eyes of the business men assembled at the meeting, the salaries of the two local workers, Miss Henricle and her assistant Miss Rogers, has been paid only in part since the funds began running low. They had been doing with as little as possible in order not to cut down on the work.

Mr. Hunt, Mr. Shepherd, Mr. O'Donohue and Mr. Smith were of one mind about the work of the local society. It had to go on, and money had to be provided for it. "Let's tell everybody what we're doing," Mr. Shepherd suggested. "Get down to cases. People are getting discriminating about giving, but there's money here, and if they know exactly what this bunch is doing they'll dig up. It's a question of educating the public."

Miss Henricle gave the figures of her annual report to clinch the case work. In the twelve months since her coming in April fifty-six children have been removed from bad environments in Wichita county and put in good foster homes after being rendered physically fit. Eleven children of Wichita county have been removed and are being made physically fit now. Seventy-nine other children in Wichita county have been looked after and their home environment improved or changed.

In her report Miss Henricle stated that where it had been necessary heretofore to take children to Fort Worth for physical examinations and treatment, that through the kindness of a local medical and surgical clinic and other physicians, examinations are now made and treatment given here in Wichita Falls, and mental examination made through the courtesy of a local psychiatrist. Except in extreme cases, or where removal is better for the child, the children are kept in boarding homes in Wichita Falls since the latter condition has obtained, until they are put into foster homes under supervision. In her report Miss Henricle mentioned with deep appreciation the kindness of Mrs. Joline, who rendered her great assistance during the maintenance of the office in the Joline apartments, of Mrs. Hines of the Hines Realty Co., Mr. O'Donohue of the board and others.

Eight New Board Members.

As one result of the board meeting Monday afternoon eight new members were selected for the executive board and to back the Children's Home organization. These include Mrs. C. E. McCutchon, I. H. Roberts, Fred Gates, N. D. Rowe, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, Mrs. Carrie Joline, J. C. Hines of Iowa Park, and Mrs. Frank Kell.

Another result will be the campaign for the annual budget which is to be announced some time this week. Between $6,000 and $8,000 is to be asked for by the board, which is making the necessary arrangements and plans this week to put the matter before the people of the city.

REVENUE OFFICE WARNS DEALERS AGAINST DELAY IN PAYING SALES TAXES

Deputy collectors of the internal revenue office have given out the following statement in regard to the payment of sales and other revenue taxes:

"It has been noticed that many local dealers are becoming lax about the time for payment of their sales and other revenue taxes which are returned monthly. This is a dangerous procedure, for if these taxes are not paid within the specified time a penalty of at least 25 per cent is added, which is a loss that the dealer himself must bear. These taxes may be paid any time during the month following that for which same are collected, but must reach the office of the collector at Dallas or the local revenue office on or before the last day of the succeeding month.

"Local dealers may save themselves time by paying their taxes at the Wichita Falls office, and it is hoped that dealers will become more careful in this respect in the future, thus avoiding unnecessary and costly penalties. A good rule to observe is to pay these taxes during the first week of the month following that in which said taxes are collected."

U. S. IS OUT OF THE GERMAN WRANGLE

in the picture, there would be some hope of adjustment and a temporary solution."

"The one obviously sensible course," remarked the Daily Express, "is for the allies to seek America's good offices in arbitration. Thus we can make sure of payments. By any other means we run the risk of further beggary without any guaranty of compensation."

The Times disclosed the fact that yesterday's proceedings at the session of the drafting committee and that of the supreme council were again "vivacious." In the committee support was found for Premier Briand's demand that the ultimatum to Germany should be firmly worded, as against the tendency of Earl Curzon to whittle it down. In the supreme council, it is declared, Winston Spencer Churchill, Austen Chamberlain and other British ministers dissented in various degrees from Mr. Lloyd George's unreserved support of French claims.

It is further asserted by the Times that the allies are believed to be unanimous on all main points, although Mr. Lloyd George is understood to insist upon unanimity regarding the methods of payment before the ultimatum to Germany is actually issued. It is said that the allies are also united regarding communicating the results of the conference officially to the United States.

The Daily Telegraph declared in an editorial today there was no intention on the part of Great Britain to devastate German territory.

"On the occupation of the Ruhr district," the newspaper continued, "will be a debt collection expedition on an unprecedented scale. It is with this purpose in view that it will be organized and planned."

FRENCH TROOPS MARCHING IN DIRECTION OF RHINE

By WEBB MILLER.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, May 3.—French troops swept toward the Rhine today.

The fervor of 1914 was re-awakened as soldiers gathered everywhere for transportation to the German border under the new mobilization orders, ready for a quick dash into the Ruhr Valley.

The class of 1919 was called up and 150,000 troops were inducted into the service. The only provinces not contributing were the devastated regions.

A force of mining engineers was formed at Mayence. A division of cavalry under General Simon will meet them at Dusseldorf to escort them into the Ruhr.

The armies of occupation are mobilizing under the command of General Degoutte, commanding the Dusseldorf area

France is prepared also for naval action.

Vice Admiral Sagot Duvurroux will command the French blockading forces unless the British participate, when one of their officers will be assigned command.

A naval mobilization order is expected to follow a conference in London today between Admiral Grassel and Premier Briand.

The Germans are believed to have 7,500 soldiers in the Ruhr who probably will withdraw before a French advance. A strong cavalry force will be sent in with the engineers, however, in view of reports that German mine owners are planning to provoke labor troubles which they can charge to the French. Cavalry officers were prepared for clashes if the miners carry out their alleged plans.

WIN BRITISH CONSENT TO MILITARY GOVERNMENT

By EDWARD HULLINGER

United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, May 3.—Premier Briand won British consent to military action in Germany only after a sharp challenge, according to reports here today from the supreme council.

Premier Lloyd George yielded to the plan of French mobilization pending Germany's answer to the last ultimatum, when Briand declared mobilization would be ordered whether the British consented or not.

Lloyd George and Count Sforza, Italian representative, hesitated a moment and then nodded an unenthusiastic consent

It was believed here, however, that Great Britain will support any military movement deemed necessary.

The French press today appeared concerned over the possibility that the entente is weakening in its attitude towards Germany. Several papers warned Premier Briand that he faces a defeat when parliament reconvenes May 19 if Germany has not yielded before then.

London correspondents of Paris newspapers, supposedly close to the French delegation, stressed the declaration that Lloyd George expects the United States to intervene before actual invasion of Germany begins.

STRIKE AT BALTIMORE ASSUMES SERIOUS ASPECT

BALTIMORE, MD., May 3—The local marine strike situation assumed a serious aspect this afternoon, twenty members of the crew of one steamship being forcibly removed by an armed party and a fight was reported in progress on another vessel. Minor disorders also were reported by the police.

EARLY SETTLEMENT OF THE MARINE STRIKE EXPECTED

NEW YORK, May 3—Early settlement of the marine strike and complete victory, was being claimed by both sides here today.

Estimates of the number of men and ships tied up as a result of the walkout, which got under way Sunday as a protest against a 15 per cent wage reduction, were still conflicting. The seamen declared that practically the entire strength of the International Seamen's Union, 175,000 had responded to the strike order The American Steamship Owners association contended that only a few hundred were out. The best "neutral" figures obtainable here were three thousand men for New York and 15,000 for the entire Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts.

The first vessel to sail with a crew of strikebreakers was the Standard Oil tanker Standard, which put to sea last night for Mexico.

A proposal by Secretary Hoover that the owners agree to arbitration by three private citizens was virtually refused by them on the plea that in effect they were more competent to settle the dispute than outsiders. The seamen did not receive Hoover's suggestion.

EXPECT TEST OF STRENGTH IN MARINE STRIKE TODAY

NEW YORK, May 3.—A test of strength in the marine workers walkout which began yesterday was expected in this port today when two big shipping board vessels with passengers, mail and freight, were due to sail for European ports.

These ships, the Old North State, for London and Boulogne, and the Potomac for Danzig, won'd sail on scheduled time, it was said at the office of the United States Mail Steamship company. Union leaders declared however, that they would remain in port. They claimed that the engineers of both vessels had quit and that men to replace them had not been signed. Several other ships were on the sailing lists today.

JUDGE WESTCOTT DENIES THE TESTIMONY OF ANSELL

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Judge John W. Westcott of Haddonfield, N. J., denied flatly today before a house committee the testimony of Samuel T. Ansell, former judge advocate general of the army, that he had discussed with Ansell and D. Clarence Gibboney the appeal to the war department for the release under guard of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft dodger.

The "buried gold was not mentioned," declared Westcott, referring to the money Bergdoll was supposed to have buried in the West Virginia mountains. "If Gibboney or Ansell had told me of the buried treasure or what they intended to do, I would have told them not to make fools of themselves. I never saw Ansell from that day until this morning, when he would not recognize me."

Eleven Greeks are reported to have been killed and many wounded. The melee was a result of an attack on the Greek orthodox church at Coritza by Albanian officers and soldiers, who are alleged to have demanded that the service be conducted in the Albanian language. LAST NIGHT'S DREAMS; WHAT THEY MEAN

DREAM OF A WIDOW

The majority of the mystics, anyway, think that a dream of marrying a widow, should the dreamer be a man, or of marrying a widower if the dreamer be a woman, is a sure sign of a legacy or an inheritance coming to the dreamer and means much happiness and financial prosperity in the future. Some say that to dream of a widow or a widower means a "reward coming to the dreamer" but regard it as an unfavorable omen to dream that you yourself are a widow or a widower.

DOROTHY DIX'S TALKS

By DOROTHY DIX
THE WORLD'S HIGHEST PAID WOMAN WRITER

They Also Pay

WHEN we hear of a middle-aged woman being cast aside by her husband for some pretty little flapper, young enough to be his daughter, our sympathy all goes to the deserted wife.

We shed tears of pity as we think of the poor woman with her house of life in ruins about her. We think with compassion of the long years of service she has given to a man who rewards her labor with black ingratitude; of the love that she lavished on him, and that he scorned; of all her dreams that are broken through. We think very often about how poor, and homeless she will be, because the man who has no sense of his moral obligations to the woman to whom he is married, generally has no sense of financial obligations to her either, and we have all seen old wives turned out like old horses to starve, while men indulge their new wives in all sorts of luxuries.

We have pictured the husbands of these forlorn old women as happy, and gay, and carefree. We have thought of them as reveling in the beauty of their young wives, and dancing and frolicking around with them, and basking in a second springtime of youth and romance, with never a backward thought toward the old life, and the old wife, except to be glad that they were left behind.

It has not seemed fair that the woman who had given the best of her life to a man, and whose only fault was that she had grown old homely, should have to suffer so while he went scot free. It shook our faith in the eternal justice that rules the world, and that, in the end, makes the dancer pay the piper.

It appears, however, that trading old wives for new is as disastrous a bargain for the man as it is for the woman, and as a general thing brings him as little happiness. A man who has done this thing said to me the other day:

"I have never known a man who deserted a faithful old wife for a young woman, who ever got any happiness out of it. I have never known one who did not regret it, and who would not have given everything he had on earth to blot out his wrong-doing, and be back once more in his old home, and with his old wife, and his old associations. I know of what I speak, because I committed this crime, and I am punished for it every day of my life, and I want you to tell my story because perhaps it may be a warning to another man.

"When I was a young chap, I married the girl I wanted, and she proved to be a splendid wife; a good, helpful companion in every way. We worked together and prospered, and the fact that I am a rich man today is largely owing to her. We raised a family of which we were entitled to be proud, and were respected and liked in our community.

"Of course, the years, and hard work, and care told on my wife, just as it does on other women. She got to be middle-aged and faded, and grey-haired, and a little stout; but no more so than just the average woman. She had probably got no more unattractive physically than I had, but I never thought of that.

"My position placed me where I came in contact with many young women. They fascinated me with their good looks, their freshness, their high spirits. They flattered me—they vamped me—for I was the boss, and I had money to spend on them, and I was fool enough not to be able to see through their blandishments and cajoleries.

"I began to think that I was young again, that I had a right to romance, that I was tied down by my old wife; and I commenced running around with these girls, and spending my money on them. I came to hate home, to be cross, fault-finding, and dissatisfied when I was there, and when I looked at my wife's faded face and compared it with the fresh young beauty of the girls in my office, it became unbearable.

"Finally I imagined myself in love with one of these young women, and I literally forced my wife into getting a divorce so that I could marry her.

"I expected to be perfectly happy, but I am the most miserable man on earth, and my very soul is torn with remorse. After my infatuation had ended, and it didn't last six months, I found that I had nothing in common with this young creature to whom I am married. She wants to be dancing and gadding around all the time, and to have the amusements she craves. I want to lead a quiet life. We think alike on no subject on earth, because she has the viewpoint of her day, and I of mine, and she considers me fossilized in my opinions. She is selfish, and grasping, and greedy, and feels that the only way she can be paid for having married an old man, as she thinks me, is by having the run of his pocketbook.

"I can but compare her with my old wife, the one who fought by my side for so many years, whose loyalty I proved a million times, who never had a selfish thought where I was concerned, and whose pride was in my achievements; and when I do, I hate the hard young beauty across the table from me, and wonder how I could ever have been fool enough to prefer it to the gentle, old face that love for me beautified.

"I am literally crazed with grief and envy, whenever I see an old couple, who have walked since youth together, going down the long trail hand in hand. Theirs is the only true happiness, for they are bound together by the ties of a lifetime, and there is that between them that can never be between a middle-aged man and a young girl. Believe me, there is no happiness for the man who forsakes his old wife for a new one. Nothing but remorse. There is a particular devil set apart to torture him."

Which is even true. As we sow, we reap. No real happiness was ever built on another person's misery.

Something To Think About

Faith

By F. A. WALKER

A YOUNG woman, at least her handwriting evidences youth, writes as follows: "I have lost faith in everything. Write something to help me to regain it."

You are mistaken my dear young woman. You have not lost faith. You only think you have.

You could not live for a day without faith.

Faith is the twin sister of hope, and both are absolutely necessary to human existence.

Stop for a moment and see how much you depend upon faith.

You open your eyes in the morning and the first thought is of the day and its duties, and you have faith that you will be able to perform them.

You have faith that you will live through the day; that you will have food to sustain you, shelter to protect you.

You start for your place of work and you have faith in the man who operates the conveyance that takes you there that he will see that you arrive safely.

As you go up in the elevator you have faith in the machinery that hauls you from the ground up into the air else you could not risk your life on the strength of those slender cables.

You go to work and for six days you labor with faith that at the end of the week your employer will pay you the money you have earned.

All through the day's work you have faith: faith that your fellow laborers will treat you honestly and kindly; faith that you will be able to fairly accomplish your task and go home to well-earned rest.

You have faith in nature; in tomorrow's sunrise and tonight's fair stars; in the coming of the springtime and the springing grass and flowers. You have faith that the planted seed will bring forth fruit and that all logical results will follow right causes.

How could you go to sleep without faith that you will awaken or eat without faith that the food will nourish and strengthen you?

Older and wiser people than you, have thought that they have lost faith and then found that it was not faith but judgment that had fled from them.

Voltaire, a wise man in many things, said and wrote much that was foolish. He said that "Faith consists in believing things because they are impossible."

Of course there is not an atom of truth in that statement. His daily life and your daily life proves its falsehood.

The apostle Paul, writing to the Hebrews, set down this truth, 'Now faith is the substance of things hoped for." Some translators of the original have put the word "assurance" in the place of the word "substance."

"Substance" seems to me the better word because from its derivation it means literally "to stand under," and that means foundation. In other words, Faith is the foundation of things hoped for.

Since the present moment is all we have and all that we are assured of, the future must be altogether a matter of hope, and hope depends entirely on faith.

Faith is not credulity.

The man who hopes for the impossible cannot have faith in his hopes. Genuine faith is based on truth which is unchangeable and everlasting.

So long as there is life there is faith as well as hope. Perhaps sometimes our faith may lessen because experience shows it to have been wrongly placed. But lose faith we cannot, and our effort always should be to strengthen and sustain it.

Faith and hope are our mental crutches and the lamer we are the more we need them.

How foolish it would be for us, who are at best, in ourselves, so feeble and helpless, to throw away the things which serve best to support and sustain us.

You have not lost faith. You have only turned away for a moment from the light which God has mercifully given to all of us and the darkness frightens and overwhelms you.

Turn back. Your faith will return.

CLAIM DALTON AFFLICTED WITH "BOND INTOXICATION"

CHICAGO, May 3. — Acquittal of Willie Dalton, 17 year old boy who walked from the Northern Trust company with $772,000 worth of Liberty bonds, was asked today on the grounds of "bond intoxication."

His attorney, Thomas Nash, in making the closing argument for the defense, said:

"This boy should go free. He suffered from 'bond intoxication;' he only made $2 a day and handled millions of dollars in bonds. The bonds made his head spin and then he was not responsible."

WOMEN CITY OFFICIALS REWARD THEIR FRIENDS

COFFEYVILLE, KAN., May 3.—The newly-elected mayor and city council of Thayer, Kans., composed entirely of women, last evening returned the compliment to the men responsible for their honors. J. M. Dunsmore, dubbed the "bald hornet of the Neosho" in the populist days when he served as speaker of the insurgent house of the Kansas legislature, was appointed city attorney, and J. H McGrew, who brought out the women's ticket, was appointed city treasurer. In view of the "strenuous program" expected to be adopted, especially in the matter of civic cleanliness, a young man was selected as marshal.

Salm Protests Marines' 4 to 2 Win Following Actions of Dallas Boss

Special to The Times.

DALLAS, May 2.—Roy Mitchell pitched brilliantly today, backed by flawless fielding, and the Marines won from Wichita Falls 4 to 2. The decision may not count, however, if President Roberts sustains a protest filed by Walter Salm in the fourth inning. In this round Galloway was at bat and insisted on Umpire Kane examining the ball served by Floyd Kroh. Kane looked it over, shook his head, and was about to return it to the pitcher, when t' s Marine skipper yanked it out of his hand. Kane ordered him out of the park, and the skipper went out but took the ball with him in spite of efforts to get it out of his possession. Salm then played the game under protest.

During the wordy melee, Frank Kitchens, more interested in the conversation than in warming up Kroh, accidently hit the big southpaw with a return and floored him. Kroh got up and pitched out the game, however.

Felix, McElwee and Reisigl were fined for stormy remarks, the latter being parked.

In the sixth, Falk's single, Clark's error of Kroh's peg on Munson's bunt, and Mattick's Texas leaguer to right filled the bases, Falk scoring on Segrist's fly-out to center. Wirts was again filling the bases, and Munson and Mattick scored on Skinner's error to center. Wirts went to third and Skinner to second on the throw-in, but Smith's line drive to Tanner resulted in a double play.

Barring his one high throw to the pan, Tex McDonald played a wonderful defensive game at third.

A TOP NOTCH BANTAM AT 32

—By Wood Cowan

Earl Puryear is a bantam—a real one, we mean, tipping the beam at 116 pounds. Although he is not champion, Earl is a mighty good fighter. He is an old man, as men go in the realm of fisticuffs, but at 32 he is demanding no little attention in his insistence on a match with Joe Lynch.

Yes, 32 is pretty old. But remember, there's Jack Britton, a champion at 38. Tom Gibbons, Johnny Buff, Ray Moore, Frankie Mason and quite a few others are well over the 30-year mark. So why shouldn't Puryear be accorded a bit of attention, particularly in view of his record?

Born in Brest, France, back in 1888, he started boxing in 1909, when he scored three decision wins in France. In 1911 Puryear came to this country and settled out in the middle west, until recently, when he came east to Brooklyn.

Earl has engaged in over 200 bouts during his career, and it is his proud boast that he has never had the doleful decimals tolled over his prostrate form in a squared circle.

He has met them all—Herman, Buff, Moore, Loodman, Kramer, Mason, Burman—and we might add that Puryear has whipped far more men than have whipped him.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR.

Russell, Red Sox, held Yanks to two hits—one a scratch.

Brooklyn beat Boston, 2 to 1, in 19 innings, making 58 innings of play in three successive games

Detroit beat Cleveland, winning the first game of the season.

Chicago won the season's first double header from the Reds

Philadelphia hit Nehf for 21 bingles, beat the Giants and went into first place.

Washington made seven runs in the first inning off the Athletics

ALL-STAR BOXING SHOW NETS TEX RICKARD $30,000

NEW YORK, May 3.—Tex Rickard cleared over $30,000 on his all star boxing show that closed Madison Square Garden last night for the season. Receipts amounted to $74,000.

Andy Chaney and Sammy Seilig got $7,500 for 12 rounds which Chaney won. Johnny Buff, American flyweight champion, got $2,250 for winning and Eddie O'Dowd $750 for losing their bouts; Jack Sharkey and Midget Smith got $5,000 in the event that Sharkey won and Eddie O'Hare got $1,000 for giving Johnny Howard a $1,250 beating.

WHO'LL WIN?

LONDON, May 3.—Joe Beckett, heavyweight champion of England:

"I never have seen Dempsey However, I have heard that he is a wonderful fighter and a hard hitter. I know what Carpentier can do but I think if Dempsey is as fast as he is said to be that he will win. It should be a great contest. I hope to be there to see the fight and challenge the winner."

HOME RUN BATTLE IS SENSATION OF SEASON

New Colossus of Swat Does Not Seem To Have Any Weakness At Bat.

By HENRY FARRELL.

NEW YORK, May 3.—"That boy George Kelly sure can sock"

Take the word of Mike Donlon for it. Also take his record of seven home runs in fifteen games as evidence.

Donlin, the old idol of the Polo grounds, who now "fields" behind the footlights, saw the skyscraper first baseman of the Giants pole his "seven" yesterday high up into the left field bleachers.

"Kelly hits 'em farther than Ruth and he's getting just as hard to fool." Donlin said before the Braves and the Giants took the field.

"He's a sucker for a fast ball. They all had his number last year. Wait until the pitchers get in mid-season form and watch him wilt," a brother actor put in.

Watson's first delivery to the new home run king was a fast one up around the shoulders. Kelly slammed it almost over the left field fence.

"Yes, he's a mark for a fast ball," Donlin came back.

"Well, he can't hit a curve ball. We all know that," the other retorted.

Mr. Scott was pitching then and he broke out with a wide smile when he made Kelly swing foolishly twice at a low curve ball his second time at the bat.

He fed the long one another curve and he smashed it clear to the center field fence, but they were laying back for him and it was only good for a double.

"I guess he's a bum on a curve ball, too"—from Donlin.

The battle between Kelly and Babe Ruth for home run honors not only has New York by the ears but it is easily the sensation of the young season.

Better Put a Few Out of the Lot Too

BOSTON, May 3.—Infiriders of the Boston Red Sox think Babe Ruth's hitting can be cut down. To this end they have worked out a defensive play that proved effective yesterday.

The deployment, said to have been conceived by Stuffy McInnis, puts all the infielders back on the grass beyond the diamond. The pitcher is assigned to cover first. In its first test yesterday the scheme showed results as follows:

First time up, Ruth hit hard to the right of second base. Pratt's position made possible a stop and throw that caught the runner. The next time Ruth struck out. On his third turn at bat Ruth smashed the ball toward right field. McInnis made a sensational stop, backhanded, and, continuing his dash, beat Ruth by sliding for first base.

On his fourth time up, Ruth smashed another low curve into the right field bleachers for his sixth home run of the season and his only hit of the game.

"Dear Sir: The off days which you mention in your article are as you say, the result of a sudden lack of co-ordination. Now did you ever stop to think that the nerve system in the human body is the telegraph system by and through which co-ordination is secured. And did it ever occur to you that inco-ordination might result from an interruption or interference with the transmission of nerve energy through the bodily machine?

"A cursory anatomical glance will show you that the chief artery of the nerve system is the spinal cord—a closely bound bundle of nerves beginning at the base of the brain branching off at various points and going, by means of sub-branches, so to speak, to every part of the body

SPINAL PLAY.

"As each nerve leaves the company of its fellows in the spinal cord, it passes through and between the movable bones of the spinal column. The bones of the spinal column are separated from each other by discs of elastic cartilage, and the whole spinal column is held in place by muscles, ligaments and tendons. This allows for a certain amount of 'play' in the spinal column.

"It should be readily seen that it is possible for one or more of the separate movable spinal bones to slip slightly out of alignment, thus pressing against, pinching or unduly tensing nerves and interrupting the normal flow of nerve energy. In the case of men engaged in any kind of sports there is an added susceptibility to displacements of vertebrae because of the strain thrown on muscles, ligaments and tendons

GETTING BACK ON YOUR GAME.

The way to eliminate an off day, according to the doctor, "is to remove pressure on nerve tissue through adjusting the movable bones of the spinal column and bring them back into proper alignment. The nerve energy then flows freely and the body functions normally, bringing perfect co-ordination."

Science has come far, but it is still in the mists. The above theory has a most plausible ring, for there is certainly something unknown to the champion or the dub that frequently brings on an off day, regardless of one's physical feeling.

Which is to say that one who plays often plays well when feeling badly, whatever the game, and plays badly when feeling well

So the above is offered to those whose off days are entirely too frequent and who have failed to solve the annoying mystery through any other court

The study of the relationship between brain and nerve and muscle in sport is moving steadily forward. And it is as important as training or practice. For upon an "off day" you have seen how even a Dempsey and a Ruth can look

SPORT SHOTS by Paul Wharkin

Cheer up. Yesterday's game may be thrown out

They're either running into some wonderful hurling or else the slugging of the entire team while at home was a flush in the pan. A slight combination of both probably

One or two or even three members of a club are apt to slump at the same time, but it doesn't seem possible that the entire crew has gone blind all at once

First a youngster makes duks out of the bunch, then an old-timer comes along and makes them look foolish. Bird, the Gasser hurler who beat us Saturday, is just breaking in while Mitchell, who twirled for the Marines yesterday, was throwing them over the plaster when half the Spudders were in swaddling clothes

Several boots figured prominently in the scoring. Kroh didn't pitch a poor game by any means. The big southpaw had a world of stuff and the majority of slaps garnered by the Hampats were infield blows.

Salm switched his batting order again, but it didn't do any good. Guess we'll have to wait and pick on the Panthers. They're all doing it

McDonald had a wonderful day. He had 11 chances to take care of and his only misplay was a wide throw to the plate. Incidentally he was one of the trio to get a blow off Mitchell. It was home to home hom to home.

The usually peaceful McElwee is having his share of troubles this season. "Mac" was parked once here this year and was fined yesterday. Guess all the boys are on edge. They've good reason to be

The bird who dubbed Salm's crew the "mystery club" wasn't so far off after all. It's a mystery to us why such a club as Walter has gathered together can't win

Kitchens almost put Floyd out for the count when he cracked him in the back of the skull with a return throw.

One of Wichita's most rabid fans is getting to be as much of an attraction at the Airdome as is the game itself. His comedy keeps the crowd in good humor all the time whether the Spudders are winning or not. One of his pets is "Babe" Ruth and when Salm sent Bischoff in to hit yesterday rather than Ruth he was very much disgusted. "Where's Comstock?" he yelled. He received a merry razz when 'Smiler' came through with a double

The Texas league limit was raised from sixteen to seventeen yesterday and managers must get down to the limit by the morning of May 5

At the present writing Walter has nineteen men on his roster, including three hurlers. Two of the seventeen men must be rookies. The Spudder boss will probably carry seven hurlers. Anderson will probably be one who will go, but the other is a matter of conjecture. Mangum is out of condition and may be the other to go, though we have no authority for that statement

Indus, Ganges and Himalaya received the names they bear today in the ancient Vedic age.

NOTIFIES COUNCIL NOT TO PAVE OHIO FRONT OF HIS LOTS

W. E. Pierce has served notice on the city council through his attorneys, not to pave in front of three lots owned by him on Ohio south of Tenth street. Mr. Pierce declares that the price is too high and that he will not pay for the paving.

Mr. Pierce several times appeared before the council when the Ohio paving was under consideration, and protested against paving at this time.

W. S. Curlee, street commissioner, said Tuesday that the council had carefully considered the matter and decided that there was no valid objection to the paving. The work would proceed as planned Mr. Curlee said.

TEXAS MAN SEARCHING FOR BODY OF MAN THOUGHT TO BE MISSING FATHER

KANSAS CITY, May 3.—A. W. Lawrence of Edinburg, Texas, who has been searching a month for his father, J. H. Lawrence, who disappeared from a hotel here March 11, today stated his determination to establish the victim of a so far unsolved "river mystery" as his missing parent.

Lawrence announced he will follow a new clue offered by Mrs. Fred Hughes' statement to police that her husband a taxi driver, "confessed" to her that he had helped drag the body of an unidentified man from the ruins of a building and that the body had been thrown into Missouri river.

The body of "river victim" has not been recovered. In her statement, Mrs. Hughes did no trevcal the name of the man.

GERMANY DUMPING GOODS INTO AUSTRIA IN HURRY

VIENNA, May 3.—Germany is dumping goods into Austria in large quantities in an effort to hold Balkan trade, in spite of the allied export tax. It is reported German concerns are acquiring control of Austrian industrial firms or are working through Austrian agencies, which would act as a screen for the re-shipment of products.

ADVOCATES RESTORATION OF SAVINGS BANKS IN RUSSIA

RIGA, May 2.—The Moscow newspaper Economic Life has been permitted to print a lengthy article advocating the restoration of savings banks in Russia and even the payment of interest in connection with the proposed new coinage of silver.

The newspaper says establishment of a wide net-work of savings banks, separately or jointly with the co-operative societies, would be a most useful measure.

TRYING ON A SUIT

EACH year there are different pitfalls for the unwary in the buying of ready-made clothes. Here are some of the things to remember when you go this year to buy a ready-made suit.

Be sure it is big enough around the armholes. Most of the suits are made with sleeves that are fitted into the armholes rather snugly. Just notice the feeling and be sure that it is comfortable.

Look to the sleeves around the hands and wrists. One of the attractive things about many of the suits is that they are made with tight sleeves. These look well. Especially does the trim sleeve at the hand look well. But be sure it is not tight enough so that at the first really warm day you will have to tug and tug to get the coat over the hands.

Don't, because the ticket fits, think the suit will do and order it. Try the skirt on carefully. Whatever may be said about the probable return to favor of the full skirt, the suit skirt is still made scant. Sometimes a jacket will prove quite large enough and the skirt will stick over the hips and refuse to be pulled into place.

Never be content in trying on a suit to look at it only without your hat on. Remember that you wear a hat usually with a suit and pose your hat carefully on your head before a mirror while you have the suit on. The effect is usually much better with the hat than without it, for suits are made to be topped off by a hat. And if it isn't better, then the suit isn't the right one for you to choose—unless your hat is wrong. Anyway, hat and the two go together and your judgment catch other.

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Yesterday's advances were followed by a decline of 5 to 10 points at the opening of the cotton market today because disappointing cables and reports of increased curtailments in Manchester mills. Some southern selling appeared but there was a continued demand from Wall street on the decline and the market turned firmer after the call with July selling up to 13.20 and October 13.88, or 11 to 14 points net higher. May, which had sold to within 45 points of July yesterday, was relatively easy owing to the circulation of notices amounting to about 2,500 bales. The firm ruling of foreign exchanges and reports of more confident tone in Wall street hoped to offset the less favorable showing of the Liverpool market.

July sold off to 12.95 during the early afternoon or about 14 points net lower under Wall street and local realizing but later steadied, ruling around 13.03 at 2 o'clock.

The early offerings of May were quickly absorbed, partly by buying for continental account, and the market showed considerable strength during the middle of the morning. A few stop orders were uncovered on the advance which carried July up to 13.22 or 20 points above the early low price and 13 points net higher. Other months showed similar gains, with buying encouraged by complaints of continued low temperature in the south but fluctuations were somewhat irregular late in the morning and the midday market showed reactions of 10 to 12 points from the best under realizing.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, May 3.—While poor cables caused a decline of 4 to 6 points on the opening of the cotton market today, a rally quickly set in on the cold weather over the belt and at the end of the first hour of trading, prices were 12 to 16 points higher than the close of yesterday with July up to 12.80. In the initial trading July sold as low as 12.60. Temperatures of under fifty degrees over a large area of cotton country were generally looked upon as being against germination of seed and growth of young cotton.

Heavy hedge selling appeared and there was also pressure to sell from spot houses. The advance was soon wiped out and toward 11 o'clock the trading months were 10 to 12 points under the close of yesterday with July down to 12.53.

In the late trading the market steadied again on expectation of unfavorable weekly crop accounts from the government tomorrow. Toward the close prices were 2 to 5 points higher than the final prices of yesterday.

Cotton closed steady, unchanged to 3 points lower.

San Financial Review.

Neither the vigor nor the animation which prevailed in Monday's stock market was in evidence in today's session. Taking advantage of the obvious propensity to realize on transactions, while the bears devoted their efforts to selling the list short. Strange to say the two forces combined failed to make much of an impression on values so far as comparisons with yesterday's closing price levels was concerned. The market was at no time weak, but it was heavy at intervals.

The later trading brought little important change in the market position. The undertone continued fair, while surface movements moved within a narrow range. Total transactions were not far short of a million shares.

To-Day's Lucky Jewel Color Flower

By MILDRED MARSHALL

TURQUOISE

THE turquoise governs today's destinies, being both the talismanic and the natal stone. However, there are persons who should not wear it despite its significance at this time, since it turns green when they put it on. However, such cases, fortunately, are rare, and practically every one is immune from being thus marked for misfortune.

For others the turquoise attracts many blessings, chief among which is good health. For those on whom it turns green, the ancients believed thata it attracted disease.

Lavevndar is a fortunate color today, especially for those who are of a nervous temperament.

Today's flower is the violet, which should bring good luck, especially if worn over the heart.

An O. HENRY Story

"Human, Rather Romance."

The Roads We Take

By O. HENRY.

TWENTY miles west of Tucson the "Sunset Epress" stopped at a tank to take on water. Besides the aqueous addition the engine of that famous flyer acquired some other things that were not good for it.

While the fireman was lowering the feeding hose, Bob Tidball, "Shark" Dodson and a quarter-bred Creek Indian called John Big Dog climbed on the engine and showed the engineer three round orifices in pieces of ordnance that they carried. These orifices so impressed the engineer with their possibilities that he raised both hands in a gesture such as accompanies the ejaculation "Do tell!"

At the crisp command of Shark Dodson, who was leader of the attacking force the engineer descended to the ground and uncoupled the engine and tender. Then John Big Dog, perched upon the coal, sportively held two guns upon the engine driver and the fireman, and suggested that they run the engine fifty yards away and there await further orders.

Shark Dodson and Bob Tidball, scorning to put such low-grade ore as the passengers through the mill, struck out for the rich pocket of the express car. They found the messenger serene in the belief that the "Sunset Express" was taking on nothing more stimulating and dangerous than aqua pura. While Bob was knocking this idea out of his head with the butt-end of his six-shooter Shark Dodson was already dosing the express car safe with dynamite.

The safe exploded to the tune of $30,000, all gold and currency. The passengers thrust their heads casually out of the windows to look for the thunder-cloud. The conductor jerked at the bell rope, which sagged down loose and unresisting, at his tug. Shark Dodson and Bob Tidball, with their booty in a stout canvas bag, tumbled out of the express car and ran awkwardly in their high-heeled boots to the engine.

The engineer, sullenly angry but wise, ran the engine, according to orders, rapidly away from the inert train. But before this was accomplished the express messenger, recovered from Bob Tidball's persuader to neutrality, jumped ou tof his car with a Winchester rifle and took a trick in the game. Mr. John Big Dog, sitting on the coal tender, unwittingly made a wrong lead by giving an imitation of a target, and the messenger trumped him. With a ball exactly between his shoulder blades the Creek chevalier of industry rolled off to the ground, thus increasing the share of his comrades in the loot by one-sixth each.

"Shoot, you blackhearted son of a tarantula."

Two miles from the tank the engineer was ordered to stop.

The robbers waved a defiant adieu and plunged down the steep slope into the thick woods that lined the track. Five minutes of crashing through a thicket of chapparal brought them to open wood- where three horses were tied to low-hanging branches. One was waiting for John Big Dog, who would never ride by night or day again. This animal the robbers divested of saddle and bridle and set free. They mounted the other two with the bag across one pommel, and rode fast and with discretion through the forest and up a primeval, lonely gorge. Here the animal that bore Bod Tidball slipped on a mossy boulder and broke a foreleg. They shot him through the head at once and sat down to hold a council of flight. Made secure for the present by the tortuous trail they had travelled, the question of time was no longer so big. Many miles and hours lay between them and the spryest posse that could follow. Shark Dodson's horse, with trailing rope and dropped bridle, panted and cropped thankfully of the grass along the stream in the gorge. Bob Tidball opened the sack, drew out double handfuls of the neat packages of currency and the one sack of gold and chuckled with the glee of a child.

"Say, you old double-decked pirate," he called joyfully to Dodson, "you said we could do it—you got a head for financing that knocks the horns off of anything in Arizona."

"What are we going to do about a hoss for you, Bob? We ain't got long to wait here. They'll be on our trail before daylight in the mornin'."

"Oh, I guess that cayuse of yourn'll carry double for a while," answered the sanguine Bob. "We'll annex the first animal wt come across. By jingoes, we made a haul, didn't we? Accordin' to the marks on this money theres $30,000—$15,000 apiece!"

"It's short of what I expected," said Shark Dodson, kicking softly at the packages with the toe of his boot. And then he looked pensively at the wet sides of his tired horse.

"Old Bolivar's mighty nigh played out," he said, slowly. "I wish that sorrel of yours hadn't got hurt."

"So do I," said Bob, heartily, "but it can't be helped. Bolivar's got plenty of bottom—he'll get us both far enough to get fresh mounts. Dang it, Shark, I can't help thinkin' how funny it is that an Easterner like you can come out here and give us Western fellows cards and spades in the desperado business. What part of the East was you from, anyway?"

"New York State. I ran away from home when I was seven-away from home when I was seventeen. It was an accident my comin' West. I was walkin' along the road with my clothes in a bundle, makin' for New York City. I had an idea of goin' there and makin' lots of money. I always felt like I could do it. I came to a place one evenin' where the road forked and I didn't know which fork to take. I studied about it for half an hour and thtn I took the left-hand. That night I run into the camp of a Wild West show that was travelin' among the little towns, and I went West with it. I've often wondered if I wouldn't have turned out different if I'd took the other road."

Shark Dodson got up and leaned against a tree.

"I'd a good deal rather that sorrel of yourn hadn't hurt himself, Bob," he said again, almost pathetically.

"Same here," agreed Bob; "he was sure a first-rate kind of a crowbait. But Bolivar, he'll pull us through all right. Reckon we'd better be movin' on, hadn't we, Shark? I'll bag this boodle ag'in and we'll hit the trail for higher timber."

Bob Tidball replaced the spoil in the bag and tied the mouth of it tightly with a cord. When he looked up the most prominent object that he saw was the muzzle of Shark Dodson's .45 held upon him without a waver.

"Stop your funnin'," said Bob, with a grin. "We got to be hittin' the breeze."

"Set still," said Shark. "You ain't goin' to hit no breeze, Bob. I hate to tell you, but there ain't any chance for but one of us. Bolivar, he's plenty tired, and he can't carry double."

"We been pards, me and you, Shark Dodson, for three year," Bob said quietly. "We've risked our lives together time and again. I've always give you a square deal, and I thought you was a man. I've heard some queer stories about you shootin' one or two men in a peculiar way, but I never believed 'em. Now if you're just havin' a little fun with me, Shark, put your gun up, and we'll get on Bolivar and vamose. If you mean to shoot—shoot, you blackhearted son of a tarantula!"

Shark Dodson's face bore a deeply sorrowful look.

"You don't know how bad I feel," he sighed, "about that sorrel of yourn breakin' his leg, Bob."

The expression on Dodson's face changed in an instant to one of cold ferocity mingled with inexorable cupidity. The soul of the man showed itself for a moment like an evil face in the window of a reputable house.

Truly Bob Tidball was never to "hit the breeze" again. The deadly .45 of the false friend cracked and filled the gorge with a roar that the walls hurled back with indignant echoes. And Bolivar, unconscious accomplice, swiftly bore away the last o fthe holders-up of the "Sunset Express," not put to the stress of "carrying double."

But as "Shark" Dodson galloped away the woods seemed to fade from his view; the revolver in his right hand turned to the curved arm of a mahogany chair; his saddle was strangely upholstered, and he opened his eyes and saw his feet, not in stirrups, but resting quietly on the edge of a quartered-oak desk.

* * * * *

I am telling you that Dodson, of the firm of Dodson & Decker, Wall Street brokers, opened his eyes. Peabody, the confidential clerk, was standing by his chair, hesitating to speak. There was a confused hum of wheels below, and the sedative buzz of an electric fan.

"Ahem! Peabody," said Dodson, blinking. "I must have fallen asleep. I have had a most remarkable dream. What is it, Peabody?"

"Mr. Williams, sir, of Tracy & Williams, is outside. He has come to settle his deal in X. Y. Z. The market caught him short, sir, if you remember."

"Yes, I remember. What is X. Y. Z, quoted at today, Peabody?"

"One eighty-five, sir."

"Then that's his price."

"Excuse me," said Peabody, rather apologetically, "I've been talking to Williams. He's an old friend of yours, Mr. Dodson, and you practically have a corner in X. Y. Z. I thought you might—that is, I thought you might not remember that he sold you the stock at 98. If he settles at the market price it will take every cent he has in the world, and his home, too, to deliver the shares."

The expression on Dodson's face changed in an instant to one of cold ferocity mingled with inexorable cupidity. The soul of the man showed itself for a moment like an evil face at the window of a reputable house.

"He will settle at one eighty-five," said Dodson. "Bolivar cannot carry double."

PAT CARRIGAN POST MEETING IS CALLED FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

A meeting of the Pat Carrigan post of the American legion has been called for Tuesday night, with a number of matters scheduled to come up for attention. Plans for the Memorial day program and for opening of the new club rooms will be considered, and all members and ex-service men are urged to be present. It is hoped to have an elaborate observance of Memorial day here, with other patriotic organizations joining the legion in celebrating the occasion. Club room plans have reached a stage where it is possible to obtain some very suitable quarters, and Tuesday night's meeting is expected to take some definite steps to this end.

The post will meet at 8 o'clock in the city council room, basement of the Morgan building.

OTHER COMPANIES FOLLOW OIL PRICE REDUCTION HERE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Action of the Sinclair and Prairie companies, in reducing the price of oil to $1.50 a barrel, was followed Monday afternoon by similar reductions by the Texas, Gulf and other buyers, all making $1.50 the new posted price for Mid-Continent crude.

THREE MORE AMENDMENTS ARE SUGGESTED BY BRYAN

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., May 3.—William Jennings Bryan, in a lecture here last night, declared teaching of the Darwin theory in schools and colleges to be one of the greatest "pending problems" with which this country has to grapple.

Teachers and professors in schools supported by public money, he said, are turning the youth of the land out into a "starless night," robbing them of their faith in immortality and a heavenly father and substituting "cold, clammy materialism" that reduces Christ to the nature of a man and gives him an ape for an ancestor."

The Darwin theory, Mr. Bryan declared, is not scientific. It is wilder fiction than Arabian Nights.

Mr. Bryan also spoke of the "next amendments" to the constitution. Three great amendments that are soon to be due, he said, are a single term for president, a minority vote necessary to approve treaties and end war, the initiative and referendum. Among "smaller reforms," he classes voting by mail, collection of the farmers' ballot and selection of candidates for president by sectional primaries.
